Meet Justice, a five-month-old who was struggling with eating and muscle development. Her mother, Melicka, felt like she was running out of next steps until her pediatrician recommended a United Way-funded program at SOAR365. SOAR365's pediatric therapy program provides therapy services to young children who have, or are at risk for, developmental disabilities under United Way of Greater Richmond & Petersburg's Kindergarten Readiness Step to Success. Since joining the program, Justice has had the opportunity to experience tremendous improvements in her quality of life.
