IMPACT THAT COMES FULL CIRCLE

DEAR COMMUNITY MEMBERS

When our community comes together around a shared purpose, remarkable things are possible. This year, we saw that spirit in action across our region. Volunteers gave their time. Donors invested in opportunity. Businesses and community champions stepped forward as partners. Collectively, we strengthened support for our neighbors facing hardship, opening new pathways toward economic mobility.

Time and again, we witness the power of impact coming full circle. A child gains confidence and later mentors the next generation. A mother receives support while pursuing her education and creates a stronger future for her family. A volunteer helps a neighbor today, strengthening a community that will support others tomorrow.

United Way identifies our community's most pressing needs and brings people and resources together to turn generosity into coordinated action. By connecting people to the right support and aligning partners around shared solutions, we create impact that reaches beyond any one person or moment, strengthening families, neighborhoods, and our entire region.

With your help, we reached more than 100,000 individuals across our region. Each one has a story, a challenge, and a future worth investing in.

Thank you for being part of the greater story. Your generosity and commitment strengthen the connections that move our region forward.

With gratitude,

NEIGHBORS HELPING NEIGHBORS

Nearly 200,000 families in our region are working but still experiencing financial hardship, and these challenges rarely occur in isolation.

Solutions must be coordinated and comprehensive. United Way helps families build financial stability and create stronger futures. Through advocacy, strategic partnerships, and support designed around real-life challenges, we connect families with the resources and opportunities they need.

WE ARE HERE FOR...

- Families facing economic hardship, connecting them to financial coaching, tax assistance, and workforce programs.
- Children who need high-quality early learning, after-school programs, and mentoring, ensuring they have safe, supportive spaces to grow and learn.
- Single mothers pursuing education, helping them access affordable childcare so they can work and learn without worrying about their children's safety or well-being.
- Older adults who need advocates and assistance in times of crisis, connecting them to home-based services and community programs that protect health, independence, and dignity.
- Neighbors who need reliable transportation, providing rides through Ride United so they can get to work, appointments, and essential services.

ALICE

ASSET LIMITED, INCOME CONSTRAINED, EMPLOYED

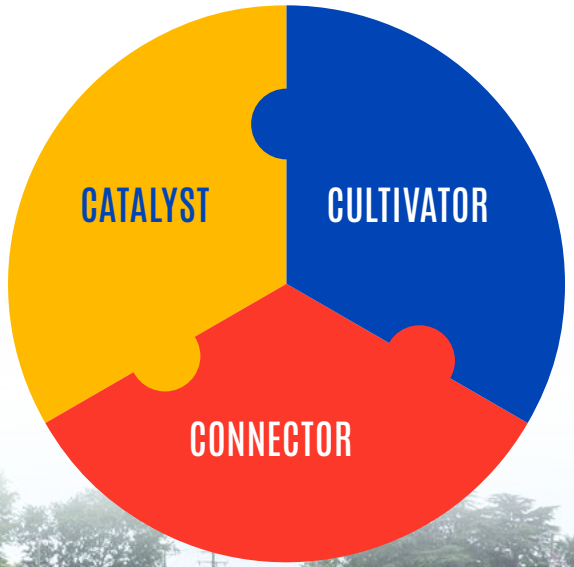

United for ALICE is a national United Way initiative that helps communities better understand financial hardship and respond with meaningful action. By measuring the gap between wages and the cost of living, ALICE data reveals the challenges many working households face and helps guide solutions that create greater economic mobility.

Through community engagement, partnerships, and advocacy, we use these insights to turn understanding into action and help create pathways to a stronger future for individuals, families, and our region.

UNITED FOR ALICE®

LEADING TRANSFORMATIONAL CHANGE

Many organizations help with one part of a person's journey. United Way connects those efforts to create a coordinated path forward.

The challenges people in our region face rarely happen one at a time. A transportation problem can affect a parent's ability to work. A lack of affordable childcare can keep someone from completing an education or pursuing a better job. A child's success can depend on family stability, caring adults, access to healthcare, and opportunities to learn and grow.

United Way looks at the big picture. We listen to our community, use data to identify needs, and bring people and resources together to meet urgent needs today and build greater stability for tomorrow.

BUILDING HEALTHIER COMMUNITIES

Good health is shaped by whether families have access to healthy food, preventive care, maternal and child health services, transportation, safe housing, and support during times of crisis.

When one of these supports is missing, the others can quickly be affected. Access to healthcare and nutritious food remains a challenge for many families, especially when rising costs, transportation barriers, and social isolation make essential resources harder to reach.

United Way creates a coordinated path forward by connecting services, resources, and community expertise around shared solutions. The result is better access to care and the support they need today while building healthier, stronger communities for the future.

CARE THAT COMES FULL CIRCLE

When Sohailuddin and Masooda arrived in Richmond in January 2025 with their four children and another baby on the way, they were starting over after fleeing the Taliban. Working overnight shifts and navigating a new community without reliable transportation, they faced challenges that extended far beyond healthcare alone. Through CrossOver Healthcare Ministry, a United Way grant partner, they found more than medical care. They found trusted support, connections to essential resources, and a pathway to stability for their growing family.

Their story reflects a simple truth: health is about more than a doctor's visit. It is shaped by access to healthcare, nutritious food, transportation, stable housing, and a community of support. When those pieces come together, families are better able to build healthier futures. That's why United Way works alongside partners across our region to strengthen the conditions that help people meet today's challenges and thrive for years to come.

UNITED WAY SIGNATURE PROGRAM

EveryDay Strong

Children build resilience through the adults around them. EveryDay Strong equips parents, caregivers, educators, coaches, and other trusted adults with practical tools to support children and teens before challenges become crises.

A $25,000 grant from HCA Virginia through the HCA Healthcare Foundation's Healthier Tomorrow Fund is helping United Way revive and expand this important initiative. Since launching, EveryDay Strong has trained more than 1,000 adults to help young people feel safe, connected, and confident. This investment will extend that impact by reaching more caring adults across our region with research-based tools that strengthen youth resilience and well-being.

We are grateful to HCA Virginia for helping bring new momentum to this work and for recognizing that healthier communities begin with people showing up for one another.

"Our goal is to reach more caring adults with the skills and confidence to show up for the young people in their lives."

- Aliyah Karner, UW Healthy Community Director

SHOWING UP MATTERS

Every child deserves a steady, caring adult, and every caring adult has the power to make a difference. Our EveryDay Strong program was featured on Henrico CASA's Vigilant Voices podcast, where we talked about how consistent adult support changes outcomes for young people.

BUILDING OPPORTUNITY FOR THE NEXT GENERATION

Every child deserves the chance to learn, grow, and realize their potential. But opportunity is shaped by more than what happens in a classroom. Early learning, supportive relationships, mental well-being, mentoring, and access to enriching experiences all play a role in helping young people succeed.

United Way invests in young people and the support they need to thrive. By creating opportunities to learn, grow, and prepare for the future, they can build a strong foundation for lasting success.

OPPORTUNITY THAT COMES FULL CIRCLE

When Davion joined Higher Achievement in fifth grade, she found more than academic support. She found mentors, encouragement, and opportunities that helped her discover what was possible. From leadership experiences and enrichment opportunities to personalized guidance through the high school application process, those early connections helped her build the confidence and skills to shape her future.

Today, Davion is studying criminology at Howard University after earning her associate's degree before graduating from high school. But perhaps the most powerful part of her story is what came next. She has returned to mentoring, creating similar opportunities for other young people that helped shape her life.

Her story reflects the power of investing in young people. When children have access to caring adults, meaningful opportunities, and the support they need to succeed, the impact can last a lifetime. Sometimes, it comes full circle as one generation helps inspire and support the next

"Access to opportunity through Higher Achievement was the starting point for who I am today."

- Davion, Higher Achievement Alumna & Mentor

BUILDING FINANCIAL SECURITY

Many families in our region are working hard to build a stable future, yet one unexpected challenge can put that stability at risk. Rising costs, housing insecurity, unreliable transportation, limited childcare, and barriers to employment are often interconnected, making it difficult for families to move from short-term survival to long-term financial security.

Financial stability depends on more than income alone. Challenges with housing, transportation, childcare, or employment can make it difficult for families to get ahead.

United Way helps build greater stability and move toward financial independence. We connect families with resources and bring partners together to remove barriers, opening the door to greater opportunity and a stronger future.

SERVICE THAT COMES FULL CIRCLE

For Cara Cardotti, helping people through tax season is more than a profession. It's a family tradition.

What began with her grandfather preparing taxes for neighbors at no cost was passed to her mother and eventually to Cara herself. Today, as the leader of United Way's Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program, she works alongside IRS-certified volunteers to help individuals and families claim the refunds and tax credits they've earned and keep more money in their pockets.

Cara's goal is to help people understand the process, feel confident navigating their finances, and access resources that can strengthen their financial future.

The impact extends well beyond tax season. Through VITA, families receive trusted guidance, avoid costly preparation fees, and gain access to funds that can help pay bills, reduce debt, build savings, and create greater financial stability. It's a powerful example of how one act of service can create opportunities that ripple outward through families and communities.

"We involve people from start to finish to help demystify the process."

- Cara Cardotti, UW Director of Tax Assistance

WomenRise: Support That Comes Full Circle

WomenRise helps single mothers turn education into opportunity by removing barriers that can make completing a degree or credential feel out of reach. Through childcare assistance, mentorship, emergency support, and a community invested in their success, the program helps scholars stay focused on their goals and build stronger futures for their families.

The impact reaches far beyond the classroom. When a mother completes her education and advances her career, new possibilities emerge for her children and future generations. As 2025 WomenRise scholar Mone shared, the program has helped her daughter "see possibility when you are surrounded by hope." That is WomenRise coming full circle: investing in a mother today so she can create greater stability and possibility for the next generation.

2026 HIGH TEA FUNDRAISER

A sold-out crowd gathered at the University of Richmond's Jepson Alumni Center for the fifth annual High Tea, celebrating the determination of single mothers pursuing higher education and the community committed to helping them succeed.

CBS 6 anchor GeNienne Samuels served as emcee, joined by Kelly Till, Board Vice Chair and Regional President of Virginia for Lee Enterprises. Together, they helped bring the WomenRise mission to life through stories of impact and possibility.

This year's event raised a record-breaking $100,000. That support helps United Way address one of the biggest barriers single mothers face when pursuing a degree or credential: the cost of childcare.

We are deeply grateful to everyone whose generosity made this record-setting year possible.

ADVANCING ECONOMIC MOBILITY ACROSS OUR REGION

Economic mobility is shaped by more than income alone. It is influenced by access to quality education, rewarding work, healthcare, inclusive neighborhoods, and the opportunity to build a stable future.

RVA Rising is a long-term regional commitment guided by data and community voice.

As one of five anchor organizations leading this effort, United Way is helping align partners, resources, and action to address the interconnected factors that influence opportunity and long-term prosperity.

HARWOOD
The Institute for Public Innovation

LISTENING COMES FULL CIRCLE

Lasting change begins by listening.

Through our partnership with the Harwood Institute for Public Innovation, United Way is strengthening how we engage communities and turn community voice into meaningful action. This year, 65 community leaders came together to listen, learn, and explore how residents' experiences can help shape priorities and solutions across our region.

It is impact coming full circle: community voices create understanding, understanding drives action, and action helps create stronger opportunities for all.

"Communities need partners to do life alongside them. That's the real power of conversations: you ask questions, you discover commonalities, and you build trust. You lead with aspirations, not allocations. That's the Harwood practice."

- Frank Cardella, UW Economic Mobility Director & Harwood Catalytic Guide

DAY OF ACTION

United Way's Day of Action brings community impact full circle.

In 2026, nearly 200 volunteers from seven business partners completed 15 projects. They worked alongside 12 community partners to assemble 525 family support kits, prepare two schools for students and teachers, support two back-to-school events serving 100 families, and create 300 nutritious food prep kits.

This year's Day of Action truly demonstrated what is possible when people come together around a shared purpose.
